

Exploring : The Ecology of Investment

Using Dialogue & Collective Intelligence

Saturday 8 September

The proposition of this workshop is that we need to move upstream in our thinking about the role of financial markets in the wider scheme of things. An integral approach to investment has to take into account the significance of our investment decisions in a much wider context than traditional business measures and horizons allow us to.

You are invited to a dialogue at the very edge of new thinking on this subject.

Both thinking contextually, and dialogue itself, contrast significantly from the orientation of problem solving, analysis and debate that tends to characterise everyday decision making. This explorative workshop offers you an opportunity to :

- experience dialogue as more than just good conversation
- step back and re-think some of the fundamentals of the financial system
- explore the wider ecology of investment through practical case studies
- bring the principles of sustainable development to bear on your thinking about investment

Supported by:

FUTURECONSIDERATIONS

The workshop will be hosted by:

Leon Olsen has worked as an advisor to business on corporate responsibility for twelve years: 'companies in the 21st century must deliver and demonstrate real value to real people'.

Menka Parekh is a strategist for social and environmental innovation, working with corporates as well as start-up ventures. She is a Director of The Hub which supports a global network of people with ideas. www.whatsbubbling.com

Hendrik Tiesinga manages a Europe wide partnership of research organisations that specialise in corporate governance and responsible investment.

Who: Pioneers of Change is an emerging global learning network of young practitioners committed to creating the change they want to see in the world.

Where: Future Considerations.
Unit 17, 142 Battersea Park Road
London, SW11 4NB, U.K.

How much: £30 fee. This includes light refreshments but not lunch, which will be organised to support the dialogue.

More info: Please contact Hendrik Tiesinga on hendrik@pioneersofchange.net, or +44(0)7769773037

Registration: Please forward your name, occupation and a short note about your motivation for participation to hendrik@pioneersofchange.net before 15 August 2007. Spaces are limited.